

As a Flight Attendant it is a constant battle with customers as it is to get them to turn off cell phones. There is no proof that it doesnt interfere with the cockpit. Also whats to keep terrorists from using it to communicate where FAMS are on the plane or anything else for that matter? I'd like you people to work a day in my shoes, just to see the safety concerns you would created by allowing cell phone use in the air. We have enough to deal with at 35,000 feet without the FCC added to that.
